Soviet Shifts Fail To Stir Ike, Dulles

Secretary Of State Draws New Criticism For His Evaluations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration has decided that no radical revision of American foreign policy is needed to meet the new Soviet political and economic offensive.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles are determined to concentrate instead on getting from Congress one new cold war weapon—authority to make long - range foreign aid pledges. It is by no means certain yet that they will make an all-out fight for this.

These basic administration decisions have been disclosed in a series of statements by Dulles, the latest being a speech in Philadelphia yesterday. In it he conceded the Soviets are winning "considerable popular prestige" in the free countries of Asia and Africa with their new line.

What Dulles called the "notable shifts" in Soviet policy, his estimate of their meaning and the reaction of his Democratic critics assure a wide-open political debate on foreign policy this year.

DULLES' ASSERTION Friday that Moscow has changed tactics because its old programs "have failed" drew weekend rebuttals from Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) and Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman of New York.

Harriman, former U. S. ambassador to Moscow, said:

"The truth is just the opposite—the Soviets reaffirmed and intensified their economic and psychological offensive because it has been so successful, successful throughout Asia and the Middle East."

Humphrey said:

"When Mr. Dulles states that the Soviets have changed their tactics because their previous methods have failed, he reveals naivete about Communist meth-

Church Filled On Invitation By Salesman

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Though few of the celebrities he invited showed up, persons of all faiths came and salesman Kenneth Ritchel kept his promise to fill the First Methodist Church here last evening.

Ritchel took it on himself to get more people to attend the services. Going on the theory that almost everyone will come to church if someone invites them, he invited members of all denominations, entire clubs and a whole host of celebrities.

He received thanks from such persons as President and Mrs. Eisenhower and Gov. Allan Shivers.

Ritchel estimated that more than 2,700 persons showed up. If extra chairs hadn't been available, there would have been standing room only.

Nearly everyone in town heard of Ritchel's challenge to himself to pack the church. He used prayer, persuasion, personal letters and invitations.

Newspapers, radio and television helped spread his invitation to "come fill your cup with good fellowship."

The entire congregation sang the Lord's Prayer at Ritchel's request.

Dr. Robert E. Goodrich Jr., pastor, presented Ritchel with a hymnal. Ritchel thanked everyone for coming, invited them back and said:

"When you tap the resources of God, nothing is impossible."

Lew Cook Resigns Key Chamber Post

Secretary-Manager Explains Candidacy Led To Decision

Lewis E. Cook announced today that he has resigned his position as secretary-manager of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce, effective March 1.

Cook, who took over the important Chamber post last year, is a candidate for Pickaway County auditor on the Republican ticket. Like two other candidates in the race for that job, he will be unopposed in the May primary elections.

Explaining his decision to give up the Chamber office, Cook said:

"Keeping up with my tax accounting and insurance business, and campaigning for the auditor job, would not leave much time to devote to Chamber of Comerce activities. Actually, the Chamber requires a full-time manager if the work is to be handled properly.

"IT HAS geen a great pleasure working with Howard Smith, president of the Chamber last year, and his directors.

"Although great differences of opinion shake the Chamber at times, its members accomplish more good for the community, for each dollar invested, than any other group I know."

Looking back over his term in office with the Chamber, Cook recalled how, early last year, Chamber officials were authorized to purchase the Bowers and Kerns properties on W. Franklin St. as the first step toward an off-street parking lot.

Cook said several bonding companies appear anxious to finance the project, and that the completed plans will soon be presented to city council for acceptance and cooperation.

Both properties are now being rented, and thus provide revenue for the Chamber until the parking lot project advances nearer to the clearing and construction stages.

Recalling many other Chamber activities in which he had a part, Cook listed the following:

SPONSORING a baseball team and later a trip to Columbus for its members.

A membership decision to limit contributions during the year only to those solicitors approved by the Chamber.

The Community und organization, which Cook said was "very successful in its first year, after it was initiated by, organized by and heavily supported by our group."

Getting a collections agency to set up operations here to provide collection service for the merchants of Pickaway County.

"In May, the Retail Merchants Committee voted to remain open for business on Friday night of each week, and to close on Saturday nights at 6 p. m. . . . .

"The city manager question was sparked again when James Parkinson, Washington C. H. city manager, addressed a Chamber meeting and outlined the benefits his city has realized under that form of government.

Cigarette Use Linked Again To Cancer

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dr. Evarts A. Graham, noted chest surgeon who made the first extensive study of the possible relationship of cigarette smoking to lung cancer, says that painting the ears of rabbits with tobacco tars has produced "very malignant cancers."

He said in a speech last night this disclosure is "additional evidence that cigarette smoke contains a factor that will produce cancer in experimental animals of unrelated species." He and his staff had produced cancers in four strains of mice in recent years.

He said these studies, combined with "strong statistical evidence of a casual relationship between heavy cigarette smoking and lung cancer," constitute "about as strong evidence that cigarettes can cause lung cancer as can reasonably be expected."

"However," he said, "it should be stated that, in exceptional cases, cigarettes are not the cause of the lung cancer but that other factors are operative" and in some cases 'the cancer-producing factor in cigarettes may be working with another cancer-producing factor from industrial pollution of the atmosphere."

Dr. Graham made his remarks while accepting the 1955 award for outstanding service to medicine and pharmacy by the Alumni Assn. of the St. Louis College of Pharmacy and Allied Sciences.

Ike May Outline Plans Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, back from a Georgia visit testing his physical stamina, may announce this week whether he will try for a second term.

The President has indicated he would be ready to answer the big question about March 1.

He has a news conference tentatively set for Wednesday and he said at his last meeting with newsmen he probably would disclose his plans at such a conference.

Akron Lawyer Named By Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today nominated Paul C. Weick of Akron to be U.S. district judge for northern Ohio, succeeding the late Emerich B. Freed.

Weick, 56, a Republican, is a member of the Akron law firm of Weick & Mason.

Illinois Mayor Under Fire For Letter Sent Red Chief

AURORA, Ill. (AP)—Controversial Paul Egan, who came off the relief rolls to become mayor in 1953, has been asked to resign because he wrote a letter to a deputy premier of Russia.

Egan, 57, protested to Anastase I. Mikoyan, the Soviet official, that freedom of speech is dead in the United States. Egan said he had been denied the right to speak up at the National Conference of Mayors in Washington, D. C., Feb. 16-17.

He also asked the Russian deputy premier if the Soviet Union would pay for a tour of Russia by some 200 U. S. mayors.

The request for Egan's resignation, which he turned down flat, came at a special meeting yesterday called by Egan to hear his report on the Washington conference. It was attended by some 350 persons and soon became a boisterous affair punctuated by catcalls and noisemaking.

After reporting on the mayor's conference at length, Egan read his letter to the Soviet leader. It said in part:

"I believe the bells of the world should be tolled for the death of free speech here in the United States of America.

"IN A MEETING called by the President of the United States to inform the mayors of the dangers lurking in the world today and to hold a free and open discussion of all the ramifications of this peril, I was shut up and the meeting adjourned."

Egan told Mikoyan he proposed to the conference that the U.S. provide funds for a good will tour of Russia by the mayors and their wives but was informed no funds were available. Egan said he suggested to Mikoyan that the Soviets underwrite the trip.

As Egan finished reading the letter, Commissioner John P. Thill offered a resolution condemning it as "most degrading and insulting to people of this city, state and nation." His three fellow commissioners joined in passing the censure motion and asking for Egan's immediate resignation.

46 Persons Held In Florida Rioting

Daytona Beach Teen-Age Hotrods Feud With Police Over Racing

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Criminal charges were on file today against 46 persons in connection with a Saturday night riot that required action by the National Guard before order was restored.

Guardsmen were called out at 1 a. m. yesterday. They restored order in less than an hour.

The Guardsmen were called after milling thousands had defied police nearly five hours, surging through a beach business section and doing extensive damage to property.

After the mob was broken up and several persons arrested, extra police patrols were maintained through the area. The National Guard remained on the alert until 10 p. m. yesterday.

The riot started when police tried to break up impromptu teenage races on a ramp to the ocean beach at about 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

The youngsters were reported holding acceleration tests, where two or more cars line up side by side and at a signal drivers ram their accelerators to the floor, racing off with tires screaming.

WHILE OFFICERS were talking to the youths, another police car arrived. Suddenly tires on the police cars were slashed, windows of one were broken. Rocks began to fly.

Police reinforcements throwing tear gas bombs into the intersection only aroused the anger of the mob and swelled its size.

Police Capt. A. O. Folsom Jr. estimated it eventually numbered between 3,000 and 4,000, plus that many more spectators.

He said about 15 persons were injured, including a policeman with a cut arm and five firemen peppered with rocks when they tried to disperse the mob with water hoses.

There were no serious injuries, but after order was restored two youths were seriously hurt in an early morning race on the beach.

Folsom said more than 85 persons were picked up but only 46 were booked, mostly on a general charge of affray.

Weekend Mishaps Kill 30 In Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP) — Traffic accidents and high winds conspired to bring Ohio an appalling weekend death count.

A total of 30 persons died in accidents in the 54-hour span from 6 p. m. Friday to last midnight. The rate was more than one death every two hours. Twenty-five of them occurred on the highways. Four others were attributed to the winds that whipped into Ohio early Saturday and wrought hundreds of thousands of dollars in damage. There was one accidental shooting death. There were 17 deaths on Saturday, eight on Sunday and four on Friday.

Baldridge Trial Jury Being Picked

George Baldridge, 63, former sheriff of Adams County, went on trial at Washington C. H. today for the slaying of Fayette County Game Protector Irvin Patrick last Nov. 15.

Patrick, a native of Pickaway County, was shot and killed on Baldridge's farm five miles north of Washington C. H. The game protector reportedly was trying to arrest two hunters for illegal possession of hen pheasants when he and Baldridge scuffled.

Baldridge allegedly had tried to stop Patrick from taking the hunters away, claiming they were "my guests". One of the main questions for the jury to decide will be whether Baldridge actually pulled the trigger of the 12-gauge shotgun or whether it went off accidentally during the struggle.

The charge against Baldridge, which was brought out in a grand jury indictment, is second degree murder. Game protectors are not included under the same statutes as other law enforcement officers or else Baldridge would have been accused of first degree murder, according to Fayette County authorities.

Common Pleas Judge John P. Case is presiding over the trial. Only two jurors had been seated tentatively at noon.

Sen. Kilgore Suffers Stroke

BETHESDA, Md. (AP)—The condition of Sen. Kilgore (D-W. Va.), who suffered what was described as a "minor stroke" Saturday, was reported as serious at the U. S. Naval Hospital today.

His administrative assistant, Harold C. Miller, said, however, that the 63-year-old senator has shown some improvement since Saturday.

Rain, Landslides Terrorizing Itlay

Big European Freezeup Ending, But Floods Now Take New Toll

LONDON (AP) — Europe's killing four-week cold wave was breaking up today but violent rainstorms and landslides struck new terror in Italy.

For the first time in the month-long arctic siege ,government meterologists confidently predicted an end to the freeze-up. It has claimed 919 lives and cost an estimated $2 billion in crop and property damage.

Slowly rising temperatures were reported nearly everywhere, through the mercury still hovered around freezing in many regions.

Flood barriers were hastily strengthened against the approaching thaw. U. S. Army engineers in West Germany were ordered to blast giant ice jams if floods threatened along the Rhine River.

Violent rainstorms hit central and southern Italy, drenching villages snowbound only a week ago. At Vasto, on the Adriatic coast, a creeping landslide still edged down on the city of 18,000 at the rate of 20 inches a day.

OTHER LANDSLIDES struck at Ortona, on the Adriatic, and blocked rail lines in Puglia. A slide at Ortona swept a locomotive into the sea. The engineer escaped but the fireman was injured.

No deaths were yet reported from the slides or floods.

The cold kept a stubborn grip on Yugoslavia, where more light snow fell during the night. The Yugoslav air force bombed ice jams in the Morava River to free rising waters in that northern Serbian stream.

Jarring ice packs prowled the northern seas, creating a big hazard to shipping.

Four Danish sailors were missing after venturing on an ice floe to rescue 14 fisherman marooned on another ice floe. The fishermen finally were rescued.

Dixie Flags Rain Down On Old Chicago

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Chicago came under bombardment at noon today by a Mississippi radio disc jockey intent on splattering that Yankee stronghold with 25,000 miniature Confederate flags.

Allan English of Oxford, Miss., planned his counterattack after a Chicago Negro disc jockey, Al Benson, sent a plane over Mississippi to spread copies of the U.S. Constitution.

Benson's action was a gesture of protest against Mississippi's segregation policies. The plane, he said, penetrated the state's 'Ironic Curtain." English said his retaliation is just for fun.

His paper flags bear these messages:

"Compliments of an Oxford and Water Valley, Miss., disc jockey with a sense of humor."

"Y'all come."

English plans to land at Chicago's Meigs Airport on the lakefront. He'll be dolled up in a Rebel colonel rig—blac hat, shoestring bow tie, long coat.

The 27-year-old disc jockey was on the verge of severe embarrassment when his plans hit a snag last night. But Jack Adams, 37, an airline captain, volunteered his services and plane after English admitted he was just about grounded. He had discovered that the pilot originally selected to make the trip was minus a license.

Rain-Swollen Scioto River Flooding Nearby Farm Lands

The rain-swollen Scioto River is expected to crest at Circleville, Chillicothe and Piketon at approximately 2 a. m. Tuesday, the Columbus weather bureau reported today.

A crest of 15½ to 16 feet is expected here according to the local weather bureau. The river is expected to rise to 15 feet at Chillicothe, a foot below flood stage, and 15 to 15½ feet at Piketon.

The flood stage of 14 feet was reached at Circleville at 8 p. m. Sunday. This morning, the Scioto River had reached a level of 15.15 feet.

Chillicothe authorities do not expect the river to reach the 16-feet flood stage in that locality. At 7:30 a. m. today, the river there was measured at 12.3 feet.

The flood stage of 14 feet was reached at Piketon Sunday. The river is not expected to begin receding there until 8 a. m. Wednesday.

NO SERIOUS damage has been reported to farmlands bordering on the river. Sheriff Charles Radcliff said here that there probably were not any crops in those bottom lands this time of year and that farmers would probably welcome the rich soil which the river would deposit as it receded.

But in Columbus, three families had to evacuate yesterday when waters from swollen Alum Creek surrounded their residences.

At Chillicothe, flood stage of 14 feet was expected with a crest of 15 to 15½ feet due at 2 a. m. tomorrow.

A weekend rainfall of 1½ to 2 inches in the upper regions of the Scioto was blame dby the Weather Bureau as a contributing factor toward the flood threats.

The Ohio River, despite heavy rain storms, was not expected to go above flood stages along the state's border, the bureau said.

It said the river will continue dropping at Cincinnati to 37 feet tonight, then rise again to a crest of 41 feet about Thursday. Flood stage is 52 feet.

At Portsmouth, where the river was reported rising, a crest of about 39 feet is expected Wednesday, far under flood stage.

The state highway department reports 21 roads around the state closed due to high water.

Special Meeting Of City Council Called Tuesday

Group To Consider Northend Residents Tapping Into Sewer

Northend residents may finally get their long awaited answer to the problem of overflowing septic tanks.

One of the two topics to be brought up at a special meeting of city council, called for Tuesday night, concerns this problem. Councilmen will be asked to consider the advisability of passing a resolution providing that Service Director Dewey Speakman may enter into a special contract with property owners for sewer taps.

Speakman said that this would mainly concern residents on Sunset Drive. A sewer is being built through that area by a construction firm, he said.

He explained that under the proposed contract, residents would be permitted to tap into this sewer as a temporary measure. Later, when the city installs its regular sewer system, these residents will tap into the new sewer and be assessed acoordingly, he added.

RESIDENTS in the Cedar Heights Rd. area have also repeatedly complained that their septic tanks were overflowing and that standing water remained for a long time after heavy rains.

Another item of business scheduled to come up during the special council meeting deals with a proposed resurfacing of Northridge Rd. Speakman said the State Highway Department is planning the project—Northridge Rd. is also Route 188—and the city would have to give its consent for the portion inside the corporate limits.

He said that the improvement would cost the city practically nothing if an ordinance were passed giving the necessary approval.

Sunday Efforts In Circleville Rated Success

Many Late Reports Sure To Increase Overall Figure

The 1956 Heart Fund Drive in Pickaway County has raised a total of $2,337.04, Dr. H. H. Swope, chairman of the campaign, announced today.

The report covers only the results of the Heart Sunday solicitations and collections at two of the county tournament basketball games. Contributions in response to form letters sent to businesses and organizations are not yet included in the grand total.

And neither is the amount raised through coin cards distributed to local school children.

The drive will continue, countywide, through the remaining days of the month. Its objective is to raise funds to combat diseases of the heart and circulation through research, education, and community service programs.

TOTAL contributions listed for Circleville have already passed the grand total reported for all of last year's campaign. The total for the city of Circleville now stands at $1,756.09.

Last year's Heart Sunday drive was limited to Circleville. This year, Williamsport and Ashville joined Circleville in the Sunday effort, with results as follows:

Total raised in Williamsport, $227.21.

Total raised in Ashville, $185.07.

The remainder of the current grand total came from collections at the basketball games. Even on the personal solicitation

Texas Panhandle Hit By Sandstorm

CHICAGO (AP) — A weak windstorm, hatched in the deserts of New Mexico, moved through the Texas Panhandle today, showering the area with gritty sand.

Propelled by winds of 30 m.p.h., the storm is expected to pass through the Missouri-Arkansas line bound or Kentucky and the Atlantic Seaboard. The Weather Bureau expects the storm to blow itself out by tomorrow.

There were no indications the storm might set up its force and bring a repeat performance of Saturday's tornadoes which slammed into Illinois and Ohio.

Senator Uses Trick To Gain New Vote

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) used a political trick in an effort to win votes for the Democrats.

He used a taxi to go to Hope High School for a speech and was going to give the driver a substantial tip with a plea to vote Democratic.

"Instead of a big tip," Kennedy said, "I decided to give him no tip at all and told him to vote Republican."

DROODLES

By ROGER PRICE

"MAN IN PRONE POSITION"

Droodles are a dandy way to find out if you have any curiosity left. For instance, the normal adult (anyone over the age of 8) should be able to take one look at this and ask all sorts of imaginative questions. Here are just a few of the questions that have been asked (1) Where does R. Price get such brilliant ideas? (2) Does he get paid for that sort of stuff? (3) Cash?? (4) Do Boy Scouts in Venice help old ladies across the canals? (5) What was Gina Lollobridgida's name before she changed it for theatrical reasons? (6) Who is the Premium Man? (7) Is Lassie really Rin Tin Tin with a Wig? (8) Do Chinese eat American Fortune cookies?

list, it was emphasized, a number of late contributions are anticipated.

This means that donations yet to be reported by businesses and organizations are sure to boost the grand total still higher above last year's figure. And money collected through the school coin cards will also give an additional lift.

Checks should be made out to the Heart Fund. When necessary, they can be mailed to C. O. Leist, 541 N. Court St., Circleville, O., or mailed in care of the postoffice after being clearly marked for the Heart Fund.

EXPRESSING satisfaction with the results already achieved, Dr. Swope said:

"When the Central Ohio Heart Association was organized to serve this community seven years ago, we hoped to encourage citizens to take an optimistic viewpoint about the heart and circulatory system and banish the pessimistic misconceptions that have endured through the ages. The encouraging report we are able to make now is a true measure of our progress.

"Similarly, we hope through medical research to quickly close more of the gaps that still exist in our knowledge about the heart and its ailments.

"Each new contribution from the people of Pickaway County "is a gratifying reminder that they, too, recognize that to help their Heart Fund is to help their heart."

Many volunteer workers have not yet submitted their reports, he stressed.

Lewis E. Cook Resigns Job With Chamber

ers, is under the direction of Gail A. Leist and Carl Agin. The group concerns itself with transportation problems in the community.

"Also last Fall, activities of the Chamber were largely responsible for the defeat of the CIO unemployment bill, which would have given up to $59 a week to the unemployed. For its work in this cause, the local group received commendations from the State Chamber of Commerce.

"Helping to promote the Circleville Pumpkin Show and to assist in its program was an all-out project of the secretary's office. Many services were provided.

"The Christmas Outdoor Homes Decorating Contest was sponsored this year under the direction of Ed Grigg and Charles Gilmore, with William Defenbaugh furnishing transportion for the judges. The contest added a brilliant touch to the city's holiday appearance.

"The Retail Merchants group, under direction of George Fuhrman, established uniform shopping hours and promoted excellent uptown lighting and decorations for the Christmas season.

"Seventeen new members were accepted by the Chamber last year. The election of officers and directors last December will be sure to provide much new blood to the organization.

"Paul A. Johnson, elected president for 1956, has already outlined many progressive activities for the Chamber this year."

COOK concluded his statement with a note of warning for the community, expressing the belief that key projects need more attention, and that the city as a whole "should first prepare itself to care for new industries adequately before it tries to find them and get them to come here."

Efforts to invite new industries to the city are virtually wasted, he maintained, when the city is not equipped to handle the increased population and other changes such new industries would bring about. He said:

"It has been enlightening to work with the Chamber, but it seems that more consideration could and should be given to parking problems, the needs and wants of the farmers, and ways and means to have the proper city facilities for any new industries that may consider coming here.

"Prompt attention, meanwhile, should be given to any rezoning of areas needed to provide for the orderly growth of our shopping area. And in any such growth we must never lose sight of the county around us.

"We must always remember that for Circleville to grow, all of Pickaway County must grow with it."

New Trial Date Set For Man Indicted On Drunk Driving

A new trial date has been set for a Logan motorist who was indicated by the Pickaway County grand jury last October for drunk driving.

William Ammer, county prosecutor, said today that George Reid has been notified to appear for trial here in Common Pleas Court on March 19. Ammer added that Reid was also told he would not be allowed any further continuances.

Reid was supposed to appear last week. However, notification was received that Reid's lawyer was on a Florida vacation. Ammer added that no further excuses would be accepted to delay the trial.

Man Suffers Cut In Road Accident

Two passengers who were riding with him, escaped injury.

2 Men From Paintsville, Ky. Bound Over To Grand Jury

Two Paintsville, Ky. men were bound over to the Pickaway County grand jury last weekend.

Franklin D. Haney and Glenn Montgomery pleaded innocent to accusations of breaking and entering in the night season, plus petit larceny. Bonds for the breaking and entering offenses were set at $4,000 each by Municipal Judge Sterling Lamb, and $1,000 each for the petit larceny.

Montgomery pleaded guilty to another charge of tampering with another's vehicle. He was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail. Haney pleaded innocent to this same accusation.

Both men allegedly were found trying to steal an automobile on Logan St. They are reportedly wanted in Kentucky for similar offenses and have previous prison records.

The Circleville Herald encourages letters to the editor on pertinent subjects of local interest. However, unsigned letters will be disregarded. Nom de plume will be used if requested.

Editor, The Herald:

I am writing this letter in respect for the girls who were cheer leaders at our Pickaway County Basketball Tournament.

I have attended them all, and at the end of the tournament they never get any praise for what they did.

They almost sweat blood for their teams, and I think their coach should speak well of them too. They do the boys, why not the girls?

City Firemen Answer Two Calls In Row

City firemen had two calls Sunday afternoon—one to a Northend residence and the other to a farm in Fairfield County.

At 2 p. m., firemen rushed to the home of Henry Schroeder on Arbor Rd., which is off Northridge Rd. A heating stove being used in construction of an addition to the house apparently was overturned by a gust of wind.

Fire damage was confined to the new addition, firemen reported.

The fire truck had just returned to the station when firemen were called to the Clarence Frazier farm east of Stoutsville. The Amanda Fire Department, which arrived on the scene first, requested additional help from here. Circleville has a mutual pact with Amanda, firemen explained.

A barn and some livestock were reported to have been destroyed. The Lithopolis Fire Department was also on the scene.

New Elections Bill Seeks To Note Spending

Senatorial Candidates Could Pay Out As Much As $1,910,000 On Poll

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new elections bill which would permit individual senatorial candidates and their backers to spend from $100,000 up to a maximum of $1,910,000 in their campaigns may be introduced in the Senate this week.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, says he has "every reason to believe we will have complete and wholehearted cooperation" from members of both parties in support of the new bill.

"We are going to insist that action be taken in this session of Congress on a complete, realistic measure encouraging the fullest public participation and the fullest public review of all elections," Johnson said.

"The unrealistic limitations in present statutes will be changed. I have no doubt that a new, modern elections bill will be passed by Congress which will put all contributions under the scrutinizing eye of public opinion. And it will carry the machinery for its enforcement."

JOHNSON SAID he has talked to influential House members and believes they will support a bill similar to that he is working out in cooperation with Sen. Knowland of California, Senate GOP leader.

In its present form the bill would raise the present elections law limitation of $10,000 personal expenditures by a senatorial candidate to 30 cents per vote cast in the last previous election, with a minimum ceiling of $100,000.

In New York state, the maximum on the former basis would be $1,910,000. That would cover all committee expenditures in behalf of the candidate as well as those he personally authorized.

In states where the 30-cent-a-vote ratio added up to a smaller amount, $100,000 still could be spent in a campaign for a six-year office which pays $22,500 yearly.

House members, who are paid the same amount, would be permitted to spend at least $25,000, or more if figured on the basis of 30 cents, a vote in their general election campaigns. They now are limited to $2,500 in personally authorized outlays.

All expenditures for candidates in excess of $100 would have to be reported to the Senate, House and federal district court in the candidate's home area.

The bill also would raise the present $3 million limit imposed on the Democratic and Republican national committees to 20 cents per vote for the highest vote cast in any of the preceding three presidential elections.

On the basis of the 1952 vote, this would permit an expenditure of $12,310,000 for each major presidential candidate.

Soviet Shifts Fail To Stir Ike, Dulles

ods which should frighten any American.

"An administration that fails to understand the meaning of the recent Communist offensive is unbelievably ignorant as to how to meet the threat."

Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said this country should have "a positive program" not subject to change with every shift in Soviet tactics.

The main lines of the impending political debate over foreign policy are clearly defined. They are:

1\. THE CAUSE of the Soviet change from toughness to a more cooperative strategy and its continuing struggle for the world mastery of communism. Dulles claims that the tough policies of Stalin's days have failed because of the strength of Western anti-Communist alliances. His critics contend that the Soviets are striking out dangerously along new lines—expanding their strategy rather than abandoning anything.

2\. The effectiveness of U.S. policy in dealing with the new Soviet threat. Dulles claims that the long-established policies of military and economic aid are sufficient provided the new aid authority is granted, although he has not claimed even that is essential. His critics contend that bold new thinking and new plans are needed to deal with what they consider the great danger of the new Soviet maneuvers.

Suggestion Box Pays Dividends To Big Business

Not All Notes Advise Company Manager To 'Drop Dead'

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Keepers of the suggestion box wish that cartoonists would get a new idea. The old standby shows the boss opening the box to find the suggestion: "Drop dead".

Directors of industrial suggestion systems say that oldie rarely turns up, but funnier ones do. They cite a recent instance when a company asked employes, What would you do if you got control of this firm tomorrow?" and received this tip: 'Sell it."

Suggestions, however, are a serious business for the companies and most employes.

The National Assn. of Suggestion Systems reports that within one year its 800 members received more than a million suggestions from employes, used 260,000, and paid seven million dollars for the ideas.

The association makes no guess on how much money industry saves each year by tips from employes but say it must run into the million.

Here are examples of the scope of a few individual suggestion systems:

Bernard F. Anderson, vice president in charge of manufacturing of Remington Rand division of Sperry Rand, says employes' ideas on how the business should be run increased both in quantity and quality in 1955. The company, which actively encourage suggestions, received 12,446, used 3,965 and paid $37,867 for them. For the first time suggestions for eliminating red tape and needless paper work topped ideas for improving production methods.

Harry W. Anderson, vice president in charge of personnel at General Motors, says workers offered 228,437 suggestions and GM paid $3,225,741 for the 54,635 it adopted. In the last 14 years the motor company has paid 17 million dollars for tips.

The Ford Motor Co, paid $1,-022,228 or 15,749 suggestions accepted from 77,815 submitted—all three figures being records, according to John S. Bugas, vice president-industrial relations.

Louisville Kids Like To Steal Cars

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Stealing automobiles has reached the "fad" stage among Louisville teen-agers.

So said police chief Carl Heustis as he called Louisville "the worst city this size in the nation" for car thefts.

He said car thefts by juveniles more than doubled last year—from 380 the year before to 845.

In the first two months of this year, auto thefts have jumped another 125 per cent over those months last year.

Ohio Farmers Going To Capital

COLUMBUS (AP)—Fifty Ohio farmers are going to Washington March 12-14 to meet their congressmen and talk over this state's farm situation, the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation announces.

Making the trip will be the elected Farm Bureau congressional spokesmen from 21 of the 23 congressional districts. These men serve on a year-around basis to maintain close contact with Ohio farm problems and to pass on their findings to their congressmen.

Ohio Legion Shuns Censure For Top Brass

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A proposal to "censure" the American Legion for calling UNESCO "subversive" was tabled at a meeting of the Ohio Legion's executive committee yesterday.

Wilbur Thomas Post No. 155 of Jamestown in Greene County brought the proposal before the committee in an effort to get the Legion to reverse its stand toward UNESCO (United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization).

The post said a committee report upholding UNESCO was not brought directly before delegates at the Legion's national convention in Miami, Fla., last fall.

In other action, the state committee selected 112 essays for final judging in the Legion and its auxiliary's annual contest for youngsters in the upper four grades of secondary schools.

The 12 winning boys and girls, who wrote on the subject "What I Owe My Country," will be taken on a week's tour of Washington, D. C. and Virginia.

For next year's contest, the committee chose the subject, "Patriotism in Modern America."

The committee, after learning that Canadian Legion officials were "cool" toward another international peace memorial at Put-in-Bay, dropped the project. The Canadians and Ohio Legionaires co-sponsor the celebration, normally held in June.

A resolution from Canton Post No. 44, urging that the state education department make it easier for Korean War veterans to secure high school diplomas, was turned down by the committee. The resolution proposed that young vets, "no matter where they served," be given diplomas if they pass certain tests.

Defensive A-Arms Slated For Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Lewis Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission says tests this spring will put emphasis on defensive nuclear weapons "designed to blunt an attack."

He said such devices could include "weapons against incoming planes or an incoming missile." Eventually, he said, he hopes the atomic program will include weapons for "all kinds of defensive purposes — except hand grenades."

Daytonian Held In Wife's Death

DAYTON (AP) — James Woodrow Goans, 40, was held today by Dayton police for investigation of homicide in the death of his wife.

The nude body of his 55-year-old wife, Dorothy, was found in their Dayton apartment, and the coroner said a stab wound had punctured her heart.

Rx the truth about the cost of your prescription

When you hear someone complain about the cost of today's prescriptions, the chances are they are considering only a few of the facts. It's true that twenty years ago prescriptions cost less—but they did less.

Today's wonder drugs, developed through modern medical research, actually do more to destroy disease-causing germs or to stimulate natural body processes. They often bring rapid, complete recovery from disease with a single "expensive" prescription! They may save you misery, discomfort, lost income—perhaps your life.

Yes, your prescription really costs little because it does so much!

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have been married, and recently divorced. Shortly after my wife and I separated I met a young woman at a church event. She didn't impress me much at first, but as our acquaintance ripened, I fell in love with her. I feel I should like to marry her.

At the time I met Edith, I was trying to patch things up with my wife, who was being stubborn and ill advised. Wanting to be fair with Edith, I told her the facts and said I would keep her posted. If the marriage was finished, I wanted to see her again. I had been lonely, despondent and on the verge of a breakdown before we met; but her society renewed my faith in life and I let things take their course. My wife divorced me.

At first Edith kept me at a distance, but since my divorce her friendship has grown. She has changed so much, and has been so warm and decent and kind, that I am very much in love with her. We ride together, go to church and parties together and visit her friends or mine; and our friends seem to be taking for granted that an engagement is pending or forthcoming.

Fears Refusal

I have spoken of marriage to Edith, but haven't directly proposed. How long should I wait, do you think, before I tackle the subject seriously? I feel that Edith has developed more than just friendship for me; and yet I am afraid if I ask her now, she might refuse, and I will become disgusted and break off.

We are both fully mature and should know our respective minds; and Edith is a very fine person who can make decisions. But you understand that once a person's confidence has been shaken, he needs guidance as to the next step. I don't want to make a social or ethical blunder. I should like to propose; but not too soon.

L. B.

DEAR L. B.: You say if you were to be turned down by Edith now, you might get disgusted and break off. And, this, despite the fact that you feel very much in love with her. So you are being anxiously careful about your next step, hoping to avoid any possible blunder.

All of which suggests that you need a good deal of help, to give you a chance at being happily married—whether to Edith or another woman.

Your essential problem, as I sense it, has to do with being a pretty rigid and defensive fellow, behind your well meaning air, in the field of human relations.

Real love is openhearted, devoted and tender; it is humble, without counting the cost. It is outgoing and cooperative in spirit. It is disposed to understand and sympathize and aid. It is other-centered, and not selfishly watchful or wary, as if fending with a potential adversary. It anticipates good, works for the best, and "endureth all things" (as Scripture says), for the beloved's sake.

Had this been your attitude, your pattern of feeling and reacting in marriage, it isn't likely that your wife would have obtained a divorce.

If you hope to marry Edith, speak out—as soon as you are legally eligible. And don't be afraid to discuss all pros-and cons of your feelings with her. Development of such reciprocity is essential to making a worthwhile marriage. As an aid to inner clarification, read "The Mind Alive" (Norton), by Harry and Bonaro Overstreet.

PREDICTING DROUGHTS

WILL WEATHER science in the future be able to forecast droughts far enough in advance so that farmers may plant according to indicated rainfall, or at least get cover crops started before the dry period arrives?

Jerome Namias, chief of the U. S. Weather Bureau's extended forecast section, voices this hope. Study of past weather charts indicates, he said, that peculiarities of air circulation in the high atmosphere determine whether a region will be wet or dry.

"Now that hemispheric upper-air data are becoming reasonably extensive and a backlog of many years is accumulating, now that solar science and geophysical sciences like oceanography are being greatly expanded, there is greater hope than ever that a general solution to the drought problem may be forthcoming," he said.

An initial step, according to the Weather Bureau, will be to plug big gaps in upper-air observation for this hemisphere, some of which are as big as the entire United States. High speed electronic computers will provide quick and accurate analysis, which is expected to make possible rapid progress in more extended forecasting.

DEFENDING LADY DRIVERS

WHILE SUCH things as high heels and restrictive garments may contribute to the misadventures of the woman driver, a Kitchener, Ont., police traffic expert says her husband probably is much more to blame. (Yes, ladies, Canadian police really are an understanding lot.)

Did your husband teach you to drive? Was he quick to laugh or to criticize? Didn't that make you less confident? Sure it did. And another thing, doesn't he monopolize the driver's seat when the family goes out for a drive instead of giving you a chance to get driving experience?

That gives you an idea why your Canadian defender points to your husband when you make a misstep and why he advises against women letting their husbands be their driving instructors.

Smart, that fellow! And a lot of men won't argue the matter. They are the ones who realize that if the Kitchener expert should convince the ladies, fewer men will have to be driving instructors for their wives. And a man doesn't have to be a coward to dodge that assignment.

'KID GLOVES' FOR BRASS

THE "KID GLOVES" treatment accorded high-ranking brass in the armed forces in comparison with the rough treatment handed out to lower ranks was typified in the Scott Air Force Base case.

This is the case where Maj. Gen. Byron E. Gates, former base commander, was fined $500 for giving preferential treatment to a private insurance firm for his own personal gain on the base.

In order to be tried by a court-martial, General Gates was ordered back to duty from retirement for six months at a monthly pay of $1,294. With his $500 fine deducted he still was ahead $2,440. And on top of this his retirement pay still is $804 a month.

General Gates was found guilty of ordering all personnel on his base to have insurance and then making it difficult for the men to buy the insurance from any firm except that in which he had an interest.

This sort of performance hurts the services. It justifies the enlisted ranks' and lower commissioned ranks' claims that the Army, Navy and Air Force are operated often like "private clubs" for the benefit and protection of the high brass. Rank certainly has its privileges — in this case worth cash.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The State Department, in no matter whose Administration, has a penchant for messing up internal political situations. The reason is that the State Department's business is to deal with foreign countries and also to make deals with them.

The Arab countries, having come into existence only since World War I, have achieved a degree of skill as blackmailers unequalled by any other countries and there is no one in the State Department smart enough to know how to deal with blackmailers except by giving in to them.

It is to be expected that that is what will happen all the time as it has been happening for years and it makes little difference what the name of the Secretary of State is.

The Arab blackmail is that if the United States does not give in to the demands of each one of the Arab nations, they will go over to Soviet Russia. And each one makes heavier demands and Egypt, which has made its deal with Russia, makes the heaviest of all.

The heartbreaking task of a Secretary of State is to remember all the deals he made; then he must recall all the deals his allies made; and sometimes they conflict. And then he must figure out if there is any possibility of reneging on a deal without losing an ally and if not, how he can satisfy a country while he is consciously commiting a doublecross in the interest of some other country.

This is called diplomacy and its greatest exponent was Talleyrand who outlived all of his friends whom he aided to the gallows; his enemies he left to others. We have no Talleyrand in our State Department and therefore, it all becomes very confusing as the Arabs labor to extinguish Israel which the State Deparment helped to bring into existence.

The shipping of arms to any Arab state is exactly a war-like act against Israel and the shipping company that took out war insurance was acting correctly because that shipment could well be blown up and then we should have a little war on our hands.

It is difficult to understand why the United States needs to be in the arms and munitions business, anyhow. Why not leave that to the British and the Czechs who wish to be merchants of death for whatever the profit? Why should the United States not take the position that is manufacturers arms and munitions for itself for NATO and SEATO and that is all?

If that position were taken, what would happen to all the little deals which all the smart litle men in the State Department have made with similar little men all over the world—little deals that are marked "Top Secret" and may not be spoken about, little deals which are constantly being violated to our detriment?

Someday, maybe a century hence, if the documents are not burned, a student of history will spend a lifetime ferreting through State Department files uncovering the little deals from 1938, when Roosevelt became an internationalist, to 1957, when the system exploded into the new isolationism. What a time this digging candidate will have particularly on the subject of Arab states and Israel, a complex of deceits with no moral guidance at all.

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE

THE operation upon Fern Blake was a success. Alan knew that it was before he had ever finished in the operating room, before the anesthetist had complimented him and before the patient had had a chance to show the first signs of recovery.

Twenty-four hours after the operation, he could take Fred Blake to his wife's room, and point to Fern's hand as it lay upon the white spread. The thumb, he explained, was strong—it no longer lay collapsed within the fingers in what was medically called the baby position.

"Then she is—cured?" asked Captain Blake.

The doctor smiled. "To the point where she will be in control of herself and her emotions. I should strongly advise moving her, when she's ready, to a good convalescent home. She is weak now, of course, from surgery. And she may continue to be weak. I removed considerable bony tissue which had been pressing upon her brain. There were clots as well, and one cyst. I am afraid she hasn't much in the way of life-expectancy. A year—perhaps longer. But she will soon regain consciousness, and some strength. I offer you this hope, Fred. Even if memory is not restored to her completely—and you must face that possibility—or if she doesn't remember you, she may herself wish to be freed of marriage. But at least she is going to be able to decide such things for herself."

"Doctor—"

Alan pressed his shoulder. "I know. You love Margaret. Don't be ashamed of wanting her. But nothing, not even Margaret, was worth getting 'at all costs.' That phrase—" He shrugged, and turned toward the door. Fred Blake stood looking gravely down at Fern. Her head was turbaned in bandages, she seemed asleep. Before he left the room, he lifted her open hand, as Alan had done, dropped it and patted it gently. "Poor girl," he said softly.

That afternoon Alan sauntered along between the white fences at the pasture of the Green. He'd stopped at the house long enough to pick up a leather jacket. Now he filled his pipe and leaned on the top rail to watch a young colt kick up his heels. Yes, spring was nigh.

And here came Jasper, across the fields, the white mane and tail of his buckskin like banners in the wind. The big man rode as if he were a part of his big horse. Alan watched them come closer, a smile crinkling his eyes.

Jasper spied him and turned that way, greeting his son loudly and affectionately. Alan went along the fence to open the pasture gate and restrained his impulse to give his father a hand down from the saddle. Jasper's twinkle acknowledged that restraint.

They talked for a minute or two, both tall men leaning on the fence rail, the buckskin tied at the gate.

Jasper hooked a thumb at the frisking colt. "Lindy named him Quill," he told Alan. "He's goin' to make a good horse. Look at the strength of those hind quarters."

"What will you name the new foal?"

"Makes no difference," declared Jasper. "Claimin' horse. They's a power o' difference between bein' an all-right foal and a good one!"

"You can tell that already?"

"I bred this one by the book. Sire and dam all read good—I should-a stuck to Feathers." He meant that he'd bred his mare from another line.

"You have to get new blood now and then, sir."

"I do. But I should give thought to how that blood shows up—not just rely on its bein' blood."

Alan smiled, and Jasper acknowledged the implication. "Maribou's the mother o' this one. She's pretty near all bloodline herself. I took a chance in breedin' her to more blood, and the result is a pretty horse that'll read like Burke's Peerage on the book, and not be much else to rely on.

"You see, son, it does work out that way. Horses and people. Us. Our family. The Thorntons. We've got good blood, but mainly we're a line for strength and endurance. Now you take your mother—she very strongly believes that blood—just what's set down in the stud book—is the strength of a family. It's not. That's where she's wrong. She could look at her own family—Seretha, your Ma'am, is herself the strongest of the Merritt line, but her main strength is the way she rules this family. Though—But d'you ever notice, Alan, that the left hand, which is generally the weaker, is better suited to hold the reins than the right one?"

Alan regarded his father with awe.

"Ma'am knows that," Jasper continued. "She knows where her strength lies. Why else, d'you suppose, she's took out after Lindy lately? She has, you know. First, convincin' the girl that she had failed you and the family by not givin' you children, naggin' at her to let you have another chance..."

Alan stared at his father, white-faced. He'd known that Seretha was somewhat in the picture, but—

"All because," the old man swept on, "she knew that there was real strength in Lindy. Ma'am can't rule her, and she knows, too, that it'll be Lindy who will supersede her, with a strength that's quite different from Ma'am's strength—that rein-holdin' I mentioned."

Alan looked away now, but still stared, white-lipped. After a bit, the old man put his hand on the leather jacket sleeve. "Why don't you say some of these things to Linda, Father?" asked Alan.

"I do a power o' talkin' to Lindy. Been able to. She knows what she needs to know. Now—she knows."

Alan kicked his shoe into the dead grass under the fence rail. "I had an idea that Ma'am wouldn't mind too much if Linda and I—broke up. But I didn't think that she— Oh, Father, I don't want to think such things of my mother! What—what shall I do?"

"Nothin'—now. Won't need to. And Ma'am knows that. You'll have no more trouble from her. She's a lady, Alan—a blue-blood. What she did, she did because she believed it was best for the family. That comes first with her—as it should. I'm grateful by-and-large for the way she's raised my pups. You and Margaret... What about her, now, Alan?"

"I had to be the one to hurt her—and deeply, Father. I hated that, coming on top of losing Silas..."

Jasper nodded. "She's good stock. She can take hurt."

"I hope you're right," groaned Margaret's brother.

His father walked over to his horse. "I have to be right," he said, almost indifferently. "Or what's going to become of the human race?"

Fifteen minutes before dinner time, Linda and Margaret and the twins arrived at the Big House to share the meal. "To help eat a ham," Jim explained their presence.

Margaret greeted the others, gently smiling, and said she'd run up to speak to Uncle Arthur; she'd not be long. Linda helped the twins with their wraps, and watched their manners. She herself spoke formally to Ma'am, smiled at Jasper and flushed pink when Alan kissed her.

With the twins settled, she joined the older folk with the soft announcement that Fred Blake had that day received orders. He was being transferred to a camp in New Jersey, and would have to leave before the end of the week.

"Well," said Seretha, "that's a relief!" She tossed her head against the glances turned her way. "Certainly!" she said firmly. "I've been afraid that he and Margaret would do something indiscreet and bring disgrace upon the family."

"I believe he is a very good man!" said Jasper, his green eyes a-twinkle. "The way he's acted, the job he's done at the Fort—he's got good stuff in him, and they still may marry and have children together. I hope to see them—just as I hope to see the ones Lindy will have for Alan."

Linda blushed in confusion, but excitement shone in the eyes she lifted to his twinkly gaze. Why, she asked herself, should I TRY to decide things for myself? The family will attend to everything. Ma'am might try to spoil things—but Father—Father won't let her. All I need do is to sit tight!

Alan was watching her, his green eyes as bright as Jasper's, and a slow smile began to fold into his cheeks, to bracket his big mouth, to spray out from the corners of his eyes.

DIET AND HEALTH

Happiness Increases Chances For Long Life

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

BE happy and live longer.

Not only will happiness and contentment make your life more pleasant, but many doctors feel it actually will help increase your life span.

Unhappiness is thought to contribute to ill health. Emotional health, on the other hand, helps your body combat illness.

Simply by wanting to live you'll enhance your chances for a long life. In fact, an article in a recent issue of "The Catholic Digest," goes so far as to say "The will to live can override all but the final death sentence."

Cheerful Emotions

Terming cheerful emotions the first line of defense against illness, the article "Take It Easy, Live Longer" lists eight ways by which you can live longer and at the same time get more out of life. I think these rules are worth passing on.

1. Don't worry about your health. If you have aches and pains or other symptoms, see your doctor. If he says you're okay, believe him and be grateful.

2. Have fun. Play is one of the best ways of working off aggression. If you win at a game of golf or cards, you'll feel good. If you lose, you can shrug it off with "Oh, well, it's only a game."

3. Enjoy your work, but don't live only for your job. Your work must satisfy you, but not enslave you.

4. Conquer your work jitters. Be decisive, delegate those jobs you can and put tiny details in their proper perspective. Don't worry about minor crises; they'll be forgotten in a week.

5. Keep life simple. Quit wanting so much. Others are worse off than you. And if things are really so bad, quit moping, for there is something you can do about them.

6. Enjoy each moment and make the most out of it right now. Develop an attitude of calmness and courage to see you through any really rough going that might lie ahead.

Family Life

7. Make your family life mutually enjoyable. You should feel that the family is an enterprise in which everyone takes a part. There must be mutual affection, equality and kindly cheerfulness.

8. Don't blow your top. Blowing off steam is almost sure to wreck something.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

L. S.: Would a nervous stomach be the cause of a coated tongue?

Answer: So-called nervous stomach is not the cause for a coated tongue.

Coated tongue sometimes comes from constipation, while in many cases no cause for it can be discovered.

LAFF-A-DAY

"We'll take a bus home — we can't afford to walk!"

Bennett Cerf's Try, Stop Me

In his "bookmen's bedlam," Walter Hart Blumenthal tells of a nineteenth-century English collector named James Edwards who loved his books so much he directed in his will that his coffin be fashioned from the shelves of his library.

Another Englishman, Augustine Birrell, ordered a nineteen-volume set of the works of Hannah More buried deep in his garden. "The books take up too much room on my shelves," he explained, "and they are just as likely to be dug up from the garden as to be picked out for reading up here."

Another English subject, Lady Gough, insured immortality among the literati by forbidding the placing of books in her library by male authors alongside those by female authors—unless, of course, they were married.

All those beautiful seductively clad beauties slithering around Hollywood leave Novelist Somerset Maughm virtually unmoved. "The trouble is," he pointed out, "that every woman in the movie colony is a peach. It makes one long for an apple occasionally."

Beautiful Old Denver Fading

By HAL BOYLE

DENVER (AP) — Beautiful old Denver, crumbling away. Beautiful new Denver, striding the sky higher.

Old Denver, I love you. New Denver, you kind of frighten me.

I really don't know you now. I'm not quite sure of you.

Perhaps that is the way a visitor should feel—uncertain, the emotional feeling always of the stranger.

But I don't want to feel that way, and I don't want to be a stranger. I have walked this way before.

I believe it was O. Henry who perpetuated the legend that nothing interesting or important could really happen except in New York, San Francisco or New Orleans.

Those were the only three American cities where real romantic things reportedly could happen, he said, and having set up his straw dummy went on to prove in "A Municipal Report" that adventure could come to Nashville too. As I recall it, it was a quietly gruesome tale of how a loyal family retainer did away with the worthless husband of a worthwhile lady, and thereby as a servitor kept an old family flag flying.

O. Henry, trying as an author to prove that anything can happen anywhere, might well then have included Denver as a symbol name for adventure, just as today Chicago, Los Angeles, Kansas City, and long-overlooked St. Louis are symbols of new growth. So are Omaha, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and other cities.

But as the old individual buildings of the past are torn down and the new more efficient buildings go up, something is lost. What is happening here in Denver in the current American prosperity boom is what is happening to other cities. It is losing a portion of its former personality and getting a crowded feeling.

Even though the fresh tall towers are planted on stilts the crowded feeling deepens.

There are so few towns that always gave such a spontaneous sense of human freedom, such as Denver!

Beautiful, beautiful old Denver, fading away! Beautiful new Denver, blooming in seried patterns where once wild flowers grew!

What can a man from out of town say about you, Denver? You have garnered the gardens of tradition, and pressed your new plantings closer together and yet farther afar. You group deeper and yet widen, as other cities do.

You hold a great promise as you cling to a previous performance. You are like a growing youth, Denver, that must and will grow taller, but equally is loved for the days when he was more boisterous, less predictable—and smaller.

WASHINGTON (AP)—It may be Secretary of State Dulles talks so much that when the Democrats get mad at what he says they forget he said it before and, between times, perhaps just the opposite.

That the Democrats are getting very vocal in an election year may be only coincidence. But Dulles is pretty vocal himself. He has not only traveled more than any secretary of state in history but may hold the record for speeches and statements too.

He set the Democrats off over the weekend by his testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Friday when he said Russia's policy of "intolerance and violence" had failed because of free world "firmness' over the past few years.

He had made the same statements a number of times before without this reaction from the Democrats. He might have added, but didn't, that the policy of firmness had been laid down by the Democrats under President Truman.

Yet, Dulles last December seemed to say the exact opposite when he declared the Russians' zigzag policy had ended and they were opening dangerous new cold war fronts in Asia and the Middle East.

Why were they doing it? In December Dulles said it might be they were more confident because they were stronger. Friday he said they were in a "very bad way" although he acknowledged they were making great progress in heavy industry and in war industries.

In December he suggested there was a rebirth of Stalinism in Russia. On Friday he said the new Russian leaders had to ditch Stalinism. In December he said Russia's new tactics "do not mark a change of purpose," meaning world communism.

He said the same thing Friday. But then he added something which threw the Democrats into a tizzy. He said the Russians are changing their tactics because they realize "they must bring their system closer to ours rather than the other way around."

If this sounds rather optimistic, it is not unusual for Dulles, whose optimism sometimes has been badly upset by later events.

Not long after President Eisenhower's summit conference with the Russians in Geneva last July Dulles said a "new spirit does, indeed, prevail" and he expressed belief the cold war might be ending and the Russians might let Germany be unified.

Then he went back to Geneva in the fall for the foreign ministers' conference. When not even a baby step was taken toward German unification, Dulles said the cold war was on.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) asked Dulles Friday if he didn't think the Russians "seem to be making progress, especially in the Middle East?" Dulles said he didn't think so, that they had made very little progress in the past few years.

But on Jan. 11 Dulles, with Eisenhower's approval, issued a statement calling on America to "wake up" to 'all the implication" of Russia's changed tactics.

Inflated Balloon Fatal To Boy, 3

OCEAN PARK, Calif. (AP)—Three-year-old Daniel Romero swallowed a toy balloon while playing near his home. He ran to his father, Reuben Romero, and collapsed at his feet. Unaware of what was wrong, the father took the child to a nearby doctor's office, where adrenalin was administered.

A fire department inhalator squad, trying to resuscitate the boy, discovered the partly inflated balloon was lodged in his windpipe. The unconscious child was taken to a hospital, where the balloon was removed surgically, but too late to save Daniel's life.

Watch For The Big Search Lite!

Old Buffalo Trails Blamed For Part Of Road Troubles

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—About 200 years ago, buffaloes in what now is central Ohio made our first roads in the form of trails from their grazing areas to their watering places and shelter.

The Indians came along and used the same trails for killing the buffalo. Then came the white man, who followed the same trails or roadways to seek and kill the Indians.

"And now on the same roadways we seem to have automobiles seeking and killing the white man."

Emmett H. Karrer, professor of civil engineering at Ohio State University, says that's part of the reason Ohio roads are "presently so inadequate."

They just haven't kept up with the high-speed vehicles that use them. "As we look back now, we can see that the mistake was in the failure to realize how drastically our type, speed and volume of traffic were to change," he says.

"In Ohio today we have quite a network of narrow crooked roads with hard surfaces."

There now are about 2,300 public agencies in Ohio having responsibility for highways, from the state highway department down to township engineers. Karrer says that's one reason poor engineering and inadequate construction has continued.

"Another of the contributors to our lack of the best engineering possible has been the politics in the highway administration," he says. "As long as our engineers are subject to election or to appointment by elected officials, they are going to be compelled sometimes to do things against their better judgment."

He tempered this statement in The News in Engineering magazine published by the university's College of Engineering by saying:

"Fortunately, under Civil Service protection, we now have in the state highway and the larger city and county organizations many excellent engineers. In the smaller units of government, we are seeing an increased recognition of the value of good engineering available through consulting engineers."

While roads improved but little, the number of automobiles using them increased rapidly. Now truck traffic is increasing faster than passenger car traffic, Karrer says.

"Since 1945, while we have more than doubled the usage of the highways, we have added very little to our highway mileage. And, to make matters worse, during the war years our existing highways greatly suffered due to neglect and improper maintenance," he says.

A large percentage of the network of 3.3 million miles of roads and streets in the United States is inadequate, he says.

Cities, villages and counties need traffic engineering assistance, says Karrer. He suggests "The state might well serve our local subdivisions through some kind of state aid in traffic engineering in the same manner that the federal government formerly helped states."

The federal government in 1915 set up the Bureau of Public Roads and gave federal aid to states to help them set up sound highway departments.

There will be highway deaths even on the best-designed roads, he said, because statistics show the chief cause of accidents still seems to be the driver.

Russian Balloons Irritate Russians

LONDON (AP)—The Russian embassy has complained that propaganda balloons are descending on its palatial premises in London's millionaire row. The balloons are being sent up by Russians.

Minister of State Anthony Nutting expressed regret but pointed out the emigre group was committing no crime.

In the pocket of her uniform was a note addressed to her school mates and parents. It said:

Tigers To Play Columbus South On Wednesday Night In Class A

Circleville's classy Tigers have again received a tough 'draw" in the Class tournament, to be played in the Fairgrounds Coliseum in Columbus.

At Saturday's pickings conducted at the Student Union on the campus of Ohio State University, CHS drew Columbus South. They play the third game Wednesday night. The Bulldogs stand 11-7 in overall play and a 8-6 in the rugged Columbus City League.

Last year, CHS had to play Columbus East in their first and only game. The previous year, the Tigers drew Newark. Both teams went far in state play before finally being eliminated.

In picking South, CHS coach Red Courtney will be facing his alma mater. The Bulldogs are apparently as tough as their nickname sounds—they reportedly feature two 6' 5" players.

COURTNEY is expected to pull out all the stops. He is adding to the height of the team by taking 6' 3½" center Long Jon Parcher, forward Bob Taylor and guard Mike Hosler along with the team.

Thus, Circleville will be able to field some good height. Tall Walt Sieverts is 6' 3", sophomore Bill Johnson is 6' 2", and center Dick Banks and forwards Jim McConnell and Ralph Jones are 6'.

CHS, in 16 season games, have averaged 71 points per contest. They capped the most successful season in many years of a Circleville cage squad by piling up 98 points against Logan. The Tigers have held their opponents to an average of 61 points per game.

The Bulldogs have admittedly played much tougher teams. In City League competition, South has averaged 56 points a game while allowing 55 points per contest by the opposition.

The general feeling is that if CHS can ride the crest of their scoring spree last Friday along with being "up' in confidence for the South game, they will give a good account of themselves. The winner of the CHS-South game will meet the winner of the Upper Arlington-Hilliards contest on Friday night.

WASHINGTON C. H., winner of the South Central Ohio League title, drew Groveport for Tuesday night. The Blue Lions, sporting an 11-game winning streak after dumping Greenfield last Friday for the SCOL crown, will be up against a team with a mere 9-9 mark. However, the winner will have to face a tough Columbus Central squad in the next round.

Circleville's game Wednesday night is expected to begin around 9 p. m. The Coliseum is located on 11th Avenue in Columbus—turn right off N. High St. or turn left off Cleveland Ave.

Bonus Baby Out To Star For Bosox

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—You're 18 years old, the star pitcher of your high school team. A major league club hands you $125,000 to sign a contract. What would you do with all that money?

That was the situation young Frank Baumann found himself in, in 1952. A pitching sensation in St. Louis High, the 18-year-old lefthander had scouts from all 16 bg league clubs knocking on his door, offering fabulous sums for his signature.

The overwhelmed youngster, after carefully considering all bids, finally decided to cast his lot with the Boston Red Sox. The bonus figure never was announced but was estimated at around $125,000. The contract reportedly called for $85,500 to be paid over a five-year period and another $36,500 when he made the Red Sox roster.

The suddenly wealthy teen-ager spent the next year and a half learning how to pitch in Louisville, a Red Sox farm club. Back in a baseball uniform, Frank is one of many eager rookies in the Red Sox camp, bent on paying dividends on the club's investmen.

Now for the $125,000 question. What did he do with the money? "Oh," he said, 'I still have a good deal of it.

"The first thing I did was buy a home for my mom and dad in St. Louis. Then I bought a car. Then I got married and paid for a nice wedding. I used some of the money to purchase clothes for my wife and myself. Most of the rest is still in the bank."

Flock Collects Beach Race Title

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — There's a secret to driving on Daytona's 4.1-mile beach and road race course, but Tim Flock is keeping it to himself.

The 31-year-old Atlanta stock car jockey won his third straight race over the sand and blacktopped oval yesterday, finishing 57 seconds ahead of Billy Myers of Germanton, N. C., in Nascar's grand national championship for late model stock cars.

Tim covered the 152 miles at an average speed of 90.83 miles per hour, driving a 1956 Chrysler 300B.

Needles Aiming For Florida Derby

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Florida Derby is the immediate goal of Needles, easily the best horse in Saturday's Flamingo Stakes.

He ran the mile and a furlong Flamingo at Hialeah Saturday in 1:49 2-5, which is 1-5 faster than Nashua's winning time last year. Needles came in 2¾ lengths ahead of Winding Way Farm's Golf Ace. Calumet Farms' Fabius was third and Maine Chance Farm's Gun Shot, the favorite, was fourth.

Kroll Leading Winner Among Golfing Pros

HOUSTON (AP)—With Ted Kroll as its new leading money winner, golf's winter tour troupe stopped in Port Arthur, Tex., today for a $3,500 pro-amateur event while en route to the $12,500 Baton Rouge Open.

Kroll posted a "cautious" 69 yesterday and won the $30,000 Houston Open with 1 under par for the 7,122-yard Memorial Park Course. He pocketed $6,000.

The only player from a starting field of 160 to break Memorial's par-72 four consecutive rounds, Kroll finished three strokes ahead of Jack Burke Jr. and Dave Douglas, ex-Houston champions.

With the $6,000, Kroll jumped from tenth to first place as the leading money winner of 1956 with $8,380. Gene Littler, Palm Springs, Calif., dropped to second place with $7,568.75.

Dow Finsterwald of Athens, Ohio has won $3,048.51.

A Pennsylvanian playing out of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Kroll won with rounds of 70, 67, 71 and 69 but thought he played "pretty bad all week."

He began the final round one stroke ahead of Burke and increased this to two after the first nine holes. After hearing that Burke ran into early trouble on the back nine, Kroll took no chances.

"After that, I played a rather cautious game," he said in explaining nine straight pars on the back nine.

Douglas, a Newark, Del. missed a three-foot putt on the last green to drop into the tie with Burke. Each won $2,700.

Moore Taking On Bob Dunlap Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore has figured out the way to beat training camp expenses and earn while he loses weight.

Instead of setting up a camp and hiring the likes of Howie King and Bob Dunlap, the 39-year-old 175-pound king takes them on in regular 10-round fights and picks up money at the same time.

A week ago, Archie scaled in hefty 197 when he outpointed King in a non-title 10-rounder.

Tonight Moore picks on oft-beaten Bob Dunlap of Oakland in another overweight 10-rounder in his hometown of San Diego.

Ross County Title Won By Centralia

Centralia won the Ross County tournament held in the Circleville High School gym by defeating Huntington 67 to 60 Saturday night.

Both teams qualify for the Southeastern district competition of Class B play at Athens. In four games at the CHS gym, the Ross County tourney drew crowds reportedly totaling between 7,000 and 8,000, nearly double the entire season total of CHS's home games.

Leading Jockey Killed In Mishap

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Charlie Guinup, a leading jockey at Rillito Racetrack, was fatally injured yesterday when he was thrown from Letitia's Boy in the ninth race and trampled by several horses.

The 28-year-old jockey was in third place when Letitia's Boy apparently clipped the heels of the horse in front, stumbled and fell, throwing Guinup to the ground.

Sponsors Game

The Mt. Pleasant Grange is sponsoring a basketball game at Williamsport Wednesday evening. Grange members will play a communnty team. Admission will be free.

Leaders Deadlocked In Bowling Meet

DAYTON (AP)—Teams from Middletown and Toledo deadlocked for first place in the Women's State Bowling Tournament yesterday.

It was the fourth of 14 weeks of competition Minor Fire Extinguishers of Middletown and Doehler-Jarvis No. 1 of Toledo each posted scores of 2938. Mayer Meats of Middletown, seventh in team standings, took first place in actual pins with 2471.

Bob Wolf Named As Vice-President Of Local District

Bob Wolf, Circleville city fireman who is secretary of the Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen's association, was named vice-president of District 5 of the League of Ohio Sportsmen.

Wolf, who will be in charge of the district, was elected to his new post during the annual convention of the group. He will continue to serve on the board of directors of the district.

Also named to the board were Jack Justus and Al Gardner. Justus, formerly of Circleville, is now a resident of Columbus. Gardner is from Chillicothe.

Theme of the convention was yearly reports from the districts and what they accomplished. Al Gabriel, president of the Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen's Association, gave this area's report.

Local Quints Play Games At Capital

All three Pickaway County basketball teams will play their Central District Class "B" tournament games at Capital University in Columbus.

Pickaway will play Johnstown in the second game tonight starting at 8:30 p. m. Ashville will tangle with Reynoldsburg at 7 p. m. Tuesday and Jackson collides with Danville at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday.

The three local hopefuls drew slots in the upper bracket with 11 other quintets at the tournament drawings held Sunday afternoon at Otterbein College in Westerville. The lower bracket teams, 13 of them, will play at Otterbein College.

Ashville, one of two teams in the district event with a perfect record, 18-0, is one of eight seeded quintets. The Broncos were seeded sixth by a vote of the basketball mentors at the drawings.

FIRST PICKAWAY County team to see district action will be the Coach Bill Barnetson Pickaway Pirate squad. Johnstown, which will provide pretty stiff competition for the Pirates, won the Licking County tournament championship and has an impressive 18-1 record.

Pickaway is the "Cinderella" team of the Central District tournament as the Pirates, with an 8-11 record, is the only entry with a losing mark.

Coach Barnetson's squad won a berth in the district tourney by winning the runnerup spot in the Pickaway County tournament. In moving to the tourney finals with Ashville, the Pirates hung defeats on second-seeded Monroe and third-seeded Jackson.

Ashville lays its perfect record on the line when the Broncos battle Reynoldsburg, a team with a 14-6 mark. Reynoldsburg, co-champion of the Franklin County League with Gahanna, won the Franklin County tournament title by defeating Mifflin, 66-52, in the finals.

Coach Russ Gregg's tough Ashville squad is the 1956 Pickaway County League crown bearer. The Bronco cagers cruised past all ten league opponents to win the championship and won five non-league battles to end their regular season with a 15-0 mark.

THE BRONCOS won the Pickaway County tournament championship by bowling over New Holland, 77-31; Scioto, 74-54; and Pickaway, 73-54.

Danville, who tangles with Coach Charlie Baxter's Jackson Wildcats, is the runnerup team in the Knox County tournament. The Danville squad, which has a 14-6 slate, lost out in the finals to Fredericktown, 66-57.

Jackson won a berth in the district by winning the consolation game in the Pickaway County tournament.

In the county tournament, Jackson defeated Williamsport, 79-70; Saltcrek, 90-44; and lost to Pickaway, 58-51. The Wildcats rebounded against Scioto, 70-66, in the pulsating consolation tilt.

Should Ashville and Pickaway win their games, they will face each other for the third time this year, on Friday night.

IF JACKSON wins, the Wildcats will face a formidable task as Columbus St. Marys will be their opponent. Third-seeded St. Marys who drew a bye, is the Central Catholic League title-winner.

The Saints finished their season with an 18-1 record and, included in that string of victories, are two big wins over St. Charles, a seeded team in the Class "A" tournament. St. Charles lost only four of 18 games during the season.

Besides Ashville and St. Marys, the seeded teams are: Marysville, Plain City, Fredericktown, Berne Union, Prospect, and Pleasantville.

Plain City, Marysville, Columbus St. Marys, Berne Union, and Utica drew byes.

First round tournament games are scheduled as follows at Capital with the first game starting at 7 p. m.:

* * *

MONDAY: Alexandria, (10-10) vs. Clarendon (16-3); Johnstown vs. Pickaway. Tuesday: Reynoldsburg vs. Ashville; Lancaster St. Marys (18-4) vs. Pleasantville (17-4). Wednesday: Northwestern (18-3) vs. Iberia (17-8); Jackson vs. Danville.

Only one game will be played at Otterbein Monday night. Marengo, the only other undefeated team, with 20 victories, faces Pleasant (18-5) at 8 p. m.

On Tuesday with the first game starting at 7 p. m., Mifflin (14-6) meets Prospect (21-1) and Mt. Gilead (12-7) tangles with Olentangy (13-9); Wednesday: Midway (17-7) vs. Magnetic Springs (14-7); and Fredericktown (20-1) vs. Liberty Union (13-8).

Games will be played on Thursday and Friday of this week and Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday of next week. The finals will be played Saturday.

The winner of the Otterbein and Capital tournaments go to the regional playoffs.

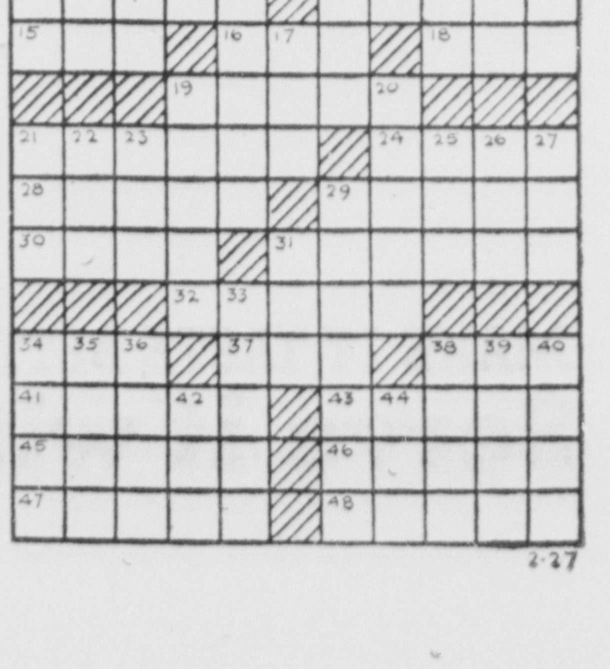
Saturday's Answer



Top Lady Kegler Wins New Laurels

CLEVELAND (AP)—Anita Cantaline of Detroit, national match-game champion, today holds a piece of another major United States bowling title.

Miss Cantaline, 28, teamed up with Elvira Toepfer, 31, also of Detroit, to capture the national women's doubles championship last night. They rolled a 16-game total of 6003.

Twins from Columbus, Ohio, Elizabeth Miller and Marge Merrick, were second with 5996.

College Cage Picture Now Topsy-Turvy

CHICAGO (AP)—A broken wrist, a defensive paradox and an old-fashioned shellacking have turned college basketbal topsy-turvy as it enters its last full week in the regular season.

The broken wrist, suffered by North Carolina State's Ron Shavlik, unfrocked State as favorite to win its third straight Atlantic Coast title. The conference championship now is up for grabs among State, North Carolina, Wake Forest and Duke in the three-day tournament opening Thursday with the winner going to the NCAA.

The defensive paradox turned the Big Ten race into a tortoise-and-hare drama. Iowa finally caught Illinois just before their showdown at Iowa City Saturday. The Illini, who had held Ohio State's Robin Freeman to 12 points while running up 16 straight victories, fell into a tie with Iowa (10-1) when Robin scored 43 and Ohio State won by three, 87-84.

The shellacking was applied by Alabama and capped the revolt against Kentucky's 11-year reign in the Southeastern Conference. Alabama mauled the Wildcats 101-77. With three games remaining, it can clinch at least a share of its first title since 1934 by beating Tennessee tonight.

Kentucky, as runnerup, is the likely SEC entry in the NCAA.

Sokolsky's These Days

But it will not matter so much then, because probably by that time there will be a totally different dispensation. What is clear now is that the Election of 1956 in the Northeastern states of this country will not be fought out over the issue of Ike Eisenhower's virtue over any Democrat who is nominated, but over the shipment of arms to the Arabs in consonance with some State Department deal which it took 48 hours to remember.

Deweyism in politics means being so absolutely sure of an election that a party loses one that its enemy never believed it could win. The greatest danger that can face the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket is Deweyism. Any party, any candidate can lose an election by making errors which shift the segments of votes from one column to another.

Ohio's Members Await National 4-H Club Week Observance

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Ohio's 76,400 4-H boys and girls will team up with more than 2 million other club members of America to observe National 4-H Club Week March 3 to 11.

They plan a variety of special events. The 4-H'ers, their leaders and Agricultural Extension agents will talk before civic and service clubs, school groups and farm organizations. Newspapers and radio and television stations will carry news and special features about 4-H in their areas. Exhibits illustrating typical and outstanding activities will be displayed in store windows and other prominent places.

National 4-H Club Week is an observance to provide 4-H club members a special occasion for evaluating past achievements and making plans for future activities on their farms, in their homes and in their communities. The boys and girls carry a wide variety of projects in farming, homemaking, community service and other activities. They raise livestock and poultry, grow gardens and field crops, conserve the soil, sew, cook, preserve food and improve their homes.

During the observance many Ohio clubs will be organizing, planning their programs for this year and selecting projects. H. W. Harshfield, state 4-H club leader reports club members in Ohio more than 100,000 projects last year.

They owned 8,130 dairy cattle and 5,414 beef cattle, participated in 25,220 farm safety programs and performed maintenance work on 2,000 tractors. Girls enrolled in the program made 50,462 articles of clothing.

Forage yields were increased as much as 5.3 times and the protein content boosted 5½ times when needed nutrients were added to pure grass stands, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in summarizing the results of tests by agronomists at the North Dakota Agricultural Experiment Station, Fargo, N. D.

In addition, says the committee, Lincoln brome grass gave 3.4 times as much forage and 5½ times as much protein when the crop was fertilized with the needed nutrients.

Fall applied fertilizer gave more forage than nutrients added in the Spring, until nitrogen applications reached the 133-pound level, according to the North Dakota agronomists.

"The reason the fall-added fertilizer gave better results," says the committee, "is that winter snows and moisture take the nitrogen into the soil's root zone where it is better used by the cool season grasses in the spring. These grasses need nitrogen before the soil warms up to the point where it supplies nitrogen by the action of micro-organisms."

The committee reports that brome grass seed production skyrocketed from 11 pounds per acre to 594 pounds per acre when needed nutrients were added. Seed yields from standard crested wheat grass increased from 77 pounds to 668 pounds when 133 pounds of nitrogen was needed.

Up-to-date minute fruit spraying information on materials and times of application is contained in a new publication released by the Agricultural Extension Service of Ohio State University and the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station.

"Fruit Spraying in '56" is a supplement to the 1955 spraying program. It contains revised spray schedules for this year and includes changes fround necessary by observation and research in 1955.

Authors of the supplement have kept costs in mind. They note that many orchardists may reduce spraying costs by becoming more familiar with their own orchard conditions and adapting the spray schedules to their own needs. They point out that while spraying is a major item in the costs of producing fruit, it is impossible to write a "cheap" spray schedule.

In the supplement they list several ways in which fruit growers may save money on spray applications.

The supplement is available at county extention offices. "Spraying Program No. SB-2," the complete bulletin, is available at cost.

New-Type Flasher Lights Slated For Ohio Vehicles

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — After March 1, motorists on Ohio's rural highways will be seeing a new kind of safety flasher lights.

They will be on the vehicles used by rural mail carriers as they deliver mail to the familiar roadside boxes.

Similar devices long have been in use on school buses to protect youngsters boarding buses and alighting from them.

But there's a vast difference between the two safety systems. Motorists must stop when the flashing lights of a school bus warn that the bus is taking on or discharging passengers. You don't have to stop when the rural mail carrier's lights flash.

His flashers simply will be a warning to other drivers and may keep other cars from plowing into his.

The law permitting rural carriers to use flashers was passed by the 1955 Legislature. Ohio carriers hope and believe the new law "will form a pattern for similar legislation and regulation in other states."

U. C. Felty, director of the Department of Highway Safety, today announced standards for the kind of lights rural carriers must use under the new law.

The flasher rig must consist of two lights mounted on top the carrier's vehicle. They must be of the two-direction type and flash amber in front and red toward the rear. Between the lights will be a sign which has the appearance of a rural mail box.

The lights will flash only when the vehicle stops for the carrier to discharge his official duties.

The sign must be folded down against the top of the vehicle when the carrier is not on his official rounds. The lights must be darkened as soon as his rounds are completed.

Felty pointed out the law does not require a carrier to use the flasher lights, but if a carrier uses them they must comply with the state standards.

Officials of the Ohio Rural letter Carriers Assn. have been running tests of flasher lights in three areas of the state since March 15, 1955. Says Eugene Hidinger of Roger, Columbiana County, president of the association:

"In all cases the lights proved to be very effective. Without exception, all of the carriers heartily approved the idea. They felt there is a definite need for this sort of safety device."

4 Ironton Legion Officers Accused

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Judge Advocate Peter Outcalt of the Ohio American Legion says four former officers of a defunct Ironton post took money from a post trust fund after the unit lost its charter.

Outcalt, a Cincinnati attorney, made the accusation as the Legion's State Executive Committee yesterday instructed him to close out the affairs of the former Frank Goldcamp Post No. 59.

The post lost its charter after a Legion trial for "conduct unbecoming a post of the American Legion."

Outcalt said that last Nov. 15, after the trial, four former officers cashed checks of $1,940.02 on a $3,500 trust fund. He said one check for $1,100 went to Dustin E. (Ducky) Corn. It was Corn's attempt to take over post realty, Outcalt added, that precipitated the trial.

TROY (AP)—Police today were investigating the death of Fred Chapman, 56, of Troy, whose artery under his arm apparently was cut with a beer bottle in a fight at his home.

Chapman died yesterday a few hours after the altercation. Police said they were holding a man for questioning but gave no other details.

Man Gets 'Urge' To Rob Churches

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A man arrested at a church on suspicion of burglary was quoted by police:

"Every time I pass a church, I get the urge. I always break into churches. It's my lifelihood. I never rob anything other than churches."

Police said Wesley S. Pond, 38, served a year and a half in San Quentin Prison in 1951-52 for church burglaries and another six months in the county jail last year for the same offense. Detectives quoted him as saying he has burglarized 10 more churches since his release from jail Dec. 20.

Business Letters Cost Dollar Each

LOS ANGELES (AP)—What does it cost a business firm to write a letter?

A survey of 200 Los Angeles businessmen indicates the figure is between $1 and $1.25.

This includes dictation, stenographic time, overhead, mailing, stationery, filing and related charges.

The survey was made by Dr. Erwin Keithley of the business education faculty at UCLA, who says few businessmen are aware of the high cost of correspondence.
